```
G                              C
Your letter came to me today  I noticed no return address
G                                  D7
And it was mailed before the ink had dried
   G                                C
It took a while to read your hand and twice as long to understand
     G               D7             G
That you were simply telling me goodbye

                   C               D7            G
A year we spent together you said that to me on paper
  C                    D7              G
It hurts to know that you found someone new
                       C              D7          G
At least you mentioned I was worth a few good memories
C                  D7                   G
And that you never loved like you loved me

                                   C
I knew I couldn't argue with some paper and some written words
G                                  D7
How can I make the letter change its mind
G                                          C
You say you've changed your telephone and that you've moved away from home
G                         D7               G
And that letter says the same thing every time
