Breaking In Another Heart-Hank Thompson
Author:Billy Gray, B. Auge, Hank Thompson

```
C                                   D7
You're breaking in another heart to take the place of mine
    F              C              D7           G7
The kind of love I gave to you is very hard to find
       C                            D7
You're breaking in another heart to try to take my place
    F             C           F    G7     C
But have I left a memory that time cannot erase

G7                               C
Can you find another one who'll love you like I do
G7                        D7                      G7
One who thinks you're everything his world is only you
C                                   D7
Now that you have made the change I don't think you will find
    F                   C                F     G7      C
The heart that you are breaking in will be as true as mine

G7                                 C
When you made him love you so and taught him what to be
G7                         D7                      G7
I wonder when you kiss his lips will you think of me
C                                 D7
It's hard to start my life again but what else can I do
       F           C                F           G7      C
You're breaking in another heart but mine you've broke into
```