Each Time-Ray Price

G
Each time I see your picture
          G7       C
A flood of memories starts
                                G
And the blue tide that's rising around my feet
   A7                 D7
Is breaking inside my heart

    G
And though I fight with all of my might
        G7             C
But the burning desire remains
                         G
For each time I see your picture
  D7             G
I loose my heart again

I hide the frame to shut out the pain
            G7            C
Then wake up searching the dark
                       G
For I just can't rest until I caress
    A7                            D7
The cold glass that's holding my heart

  G
I haven't yet learned how to forget
        G7             C
And the burning desire remains
                         G
For each time I see your picture
  D7             G
I loose my heart again
