I delivered the orders from your last Stanley Party
C                  G7                   C     G7
Though I got some strange looks at the doors
    C              G7                   C           F
And I cancelled our subscription to the Ladies Home Journal
         C    G7             C
And told Avon not to call anymore

Men have no need for magazines they don't read
                           G7
For perfume and powder and such
C          G7         C          F
Me and the house and everything in it
     C        G7       C
Have lost the feminine touch

                  G7       C                    F
The clock by our bed just gave up and stopped ticking
C                        G7          C    G7
And the flowers on the mantel have died
    C               G7           C             F
The dust is gettin' deep on everything but the ceiling
         C           G7          C
And I've lost all my home owner's pride

G7                        F          C
Bottles are made from the bar to the bedroom
                                  G7
I've turned inside things for a crutch
C          G7         C          F
Me and the house and everything in it
     C        G7       C
Have lost the feminine touch
F           C         G7       F  C
Girl I sure miss your feminine touch
