```
C                       G7
You brushed by me  and oh you came so near
                                        C
That I could smell the perfume in your hair
               G7
An old memory  took me back in time
                                                C
Any my heart stood still for just one minute there

F                    C
For a minute there  I forgot where I was
G7                                C
Remembering only when  you used to care
F                              C
Then as you walked by me you almost touched my arm
  D7                                G7
I nearly called your name for a minute there

C                    G7
The man beside you  looked so satisfied
                                      C
Knowing that's his wedding ring you wear
                             G7
It cost him nothing  for a lifetime in your arms
                                               C
But I'd give all I own for just one minute there
