Gone Gone Gone-Charley Pride
Author:Jerry Crutchfield and Buck Maxwell

```
G                  C                  G
The day you walked away you left the hurt behind
                    C               D7
A hurt that kept on growing all the time
  C                                    G
A hurt that lit the match that burned my world down
F                          D7    G
Till everything was gone  gone  gone

F                                 G7
And now I'm left among the ashes of my dreams
F                            D7
Searching for a reason to go on
    G                   C                G
But all that's left is hurt and hurt is not enough
F                         D7    G
When everything is gone  gone  gone

                  C              G
Now in the quiet garden I found peace at last
                  C                  D7
I've left the hurt behind me in the past
  C                                  G
I walk among the flowers that bloom here in the sun
F                          D7    G
And all the hurt is gone  gone  gone

F                                       G7
But then at night they come and take me to my room
F                            D7
And like a little child I go along
    G               C                   G
And if my room has bars it's not that I've done wrong
F                           D7    G
It's just my mind is gone  gone  gone
```