Good Morning Self-Jim Reeves
Author:Jimmy Key

```
G                              D7        G
Good morning self  how do you feel this morning
                          D7            G
I must admit  you don't look so pretty good
               C                              G            C
What made you say the things you said to your darling last night
             G                         D7          G
I bet you'll change the things you said if you could

                                 D7                     G
Good morning self  how do you feel  now that she's gone
                                   D7        G
And we just stand here  you and me  all alone
     C                             G            C
With nothing in this world  but lonely loneliness
            G                      D7                 G
Although I cried your eyes are dry  good morning Jim

          D7        C               G
Now don't try to pretend you don't remember
            D7          C           G              D7
No need to l-ie about the way you treated her oh no
     G              D7             G
Just remember I was there when it happened
                                 D7          G
And I heard those things you said as she left

            C                            G                    C
You're the only one to blame but we both must share the pain
               G                       D7                     G
You know it's true she said we're through good morning self
```