I'll Never Always Love You Anymore-Curtis Potter
Author:Mel Holt

```
C                                        F
Your heart strayed off but now it's back knocking at my hearts door
       G7                                                  C
But it seems to me if I recall we've been through this before
                                F
And I said I'd always love you even after I learned the score
    G7                            C
But I'll never always love you anymore

       F                           C
You're begging me to forgive and forget
     D7
Your promises are tempting me
    G7             C                          F
And yet I have forgiven and forgotten once before
    G7                              C
And I'll never always love you anymore

       F                           C
You're begging me to forgive and forget
     D7
Your promises are tempting me
    G7             C                          F
And yet I have forgiven and forgotten once before
    G7                              C
And I'll never always love you anymore
```

Repeat #2