I'm Tired of Pretending-Hank Thompson

```
G                              C               G
I'm tired of pretending that I don't care for you
                                 A7            D7
I'm tired of pretending that I found someone new
     G                                C                 G
Each lonely night keeps lending an atmosphere that's blue
                                   D7                  G
I'm tired of pretending that I'm not in love with you

    C                                   G
I'm tired of make believing that I'm happy when I'm not
    C                                   G                    D7
I'm tired of hearing people say just look how much he's got
 G                                 C                 G
If you see me laughing it's just a thing I do
                                   D7                  G
I'm tired of pretending that I'm not in love with you

                                 C                   G
I'm tired of pretending that every thing's the same
                                  A7                  D7
I hate to be indifferent when people call your name
    G                                 C             G
I'm tired of talking to myself and trying to ignore
                                     D7               G
The things that meant so much to me when I had you before

    C                                        G
I'm tired of spending sleepless nights so many now it seems
    C                                    G           D7
I'm tired of waking up to find you're only in my dreams
    G                            C               G
I'm tired of pretending our love affair is through
                                   D7                  G
I'm tired of pretending that I'm not in love with you
