I've Run Out Of Tomorrows-Hank Thompson

```
G                 C    G                                  D7
I've run out of to-morrows used my last one today
                                                        G
My future is empty since you went away
                                    G7                      C
My new day holds nothing like you left me I'll stay
                   G                D7                   G
I've run out of to-morrows  used my last one today

                         D7                                          G
The hands on the clock have  stopped turning somehow
                 D7                    G
I'm living for-ever in an eternal now
                              G7                              C
I'll look over my shoul-der to a bright yesterday
                   G                D7                   G
I've run out of to-morrows  used my last one today

                         D7                                          G
The hands on the clock have  stopped turning somehow
                 D7                    G
I'm living for-ever in an eternal now
                              G7                              C
I'll look over my shoul-der to a bright yesterday
                   G                D7                    G
I've run out of to-morrows  used my last one today
