Today the weather was so pretty
   D7                      G
At noon I went out for a stroll
                             C
I walked and did some window shopping
    D7                     G
And met someone I used to know

                                 C
The years have been kind to her beauty
     D7                       G
When I first saw her my heart jumped
                         C
Tonight if I seem disenchanted
     D7                          G
It's because I took a memory to lunch

                                 C
We sat and talked about the old days
     D7                      G
With misty teardrops in our eyes
                        C
And reaffirmed an old suspicion
    D7                       G
The past grows old but never dies

                                 C
The charm that draws two hearts together
   D7                        G
By four o'clock was just too much
                                   C
The days and years we had between us
     D7                      G
Were down to just two coffee cups

                                 C
You can't relieve life in an hour
    D7                      G
The afternoon kept wearing on
                             C
I'm sorry that I'm late for dinner
  D7               G
I took a memory to lunch
