G                                D7       G
You look the same you're just as sweet as ever
                              C        G
You called my name almost as sweet as ever
       Em                             C             G
When I reach and touch your hand it's not quite the same
                                 D7              G
The sparkle's gone just like in yesterday's champagne

        Em                                 C                    G
I don't think it's right to keep you if your love has grown cold
       Em                                 C           D7
When I know there's someone else you'd much rather hold
G                           D7      G
I still love you just as much as ever
                     C         G
And I need you even more than ever

           Em                              C              G
The bubble in your eyes are gone though you may try in vain
                                 D7              G
Each time we kiss I feel like yesterday's champagne
