You're The Reason-Lloyd Snow

```
G                                   G7                C
Sometimes I wake from dreaming that you walked out on me
                   G                            D7
And I can feel the teardrops rolling down my cheeks
    G                                G7                C
And I feel you there beside me and I watch you while you sleep
                          G       D7                  G
I thank God for your sweet loving  that He gave you to me

           C                                  G
You're the reason why the sun comes up each morning
           D7                                 G
You're the reason why the stars shine bright at night
    C                                       G
And without you girl my life would have no meaning
           D7                                  G
You're the best thing that's ever happened in my life

                                  G7               C
I know that I don't tell you how much you mean to me
                        G                          D7
There could never be no other you're all I'll ever need
    G                                   G7                C
Sometimes I try and tell you but the words just come out wrong
                           G           D7                   G
And I just got to thinking about you  so I wrote it in this song

Repeat #2

           D7                                  G
You're the best thing that's ever happened in my life
