Your Eyes Don't Lie To Me-Bill Anderson
Author:Terry Carisse and Bruce Rawlins

```
G        C              G
Your eyes tell me all the things I need to know
          D7                        G
And they're telling me you no longer care
                 C              G
I know you'll never leave me so I say goodbye and go
   D7                              G
And remember all the love we used to share

                            C          G
Your eyes tell me you don't love me anymore
                             D7
They're begging me to set you free
    G                       C          G
Your eyes tell me you don't love me anymore
                    D7     G
And your eyes don't lie to me

          C            G
Your eyes tell me your need for me is gone
       D7                             G
They're telling me the flame of love is dying
                  C               G
Now that it's all over there's no use in hanging on
   D7                              G
But you don't know the hurt I feel inside
