Ma Sheela

Ma Sheela
(Robert Kotta)

Bagwan and Ma Sheela were talking one day.
Bagwan says, ``Ma Sheela, I think we should pray,
And if we have one prayer, we may as well have ten."
``Why not start our own religion," says Ma Sheela, Amen.

``What first shall we pray for?"  ``Let's pray for a home,
Out in the west where the antelope roam.
And if we have one house, we may as well have ten."
``Why not start a bloody commune?" says Ma Sheela, Amen.

``What next shall we pray for?"  ``Well let's pray for some dupes,
Shallow free thinkers with plenty of loot,
And we'll dress them in purple and say there's no sin."
``And we'll call it enlightenment," says Ma Sheela, Amen.

``What next shall we pray for?"  ``Let's pray for a car
With a TV and telephone and fully stocked bar.
And we'll only take Rolls Royce and Mercedes Benz."
``And it'll be tax deductible," says Ma Sheela, Amen.

``What last should we pray for?"  ``Let's pray for a jet.
When the s hits the fan then it's outward we'll get
And we'll fly me to the sunset and try it again."
``And I'll meet you in Geneva," said Ma Sheela, Amen.
